

Performance Commentary

SKAGEN Kon-Tiki suffered a setback in July due to a combination of stock-specific and regional issues. The shares of copper and gold miner Turquoise Hill Resources collapsed on news that the company's expansion project in Mongolia would be delayed by 16-30 months at a materially higher cost. While we remain confident that the project will be developed, the economics of it have weakened and any incremental financing will be at a higher cost. Our Korean holdings suffered on the back of trade war induced currency weakness and LG Electronics, in particular, warned of a deteriorating macro outlook. India was also weak, which affected Mahindra & Mahindra and State Bank.

On the positive side, this year's top contributors Ping An and Naspers continued to deliver on the back of growing expectations of strong earnings and corporate simplification. We also benefited from a strong share price recovery in Indonesian telecoms operator Indosat driven by a potential tower sale, which should help alleviate its financial leverage. Turkish construction company Enka and Turkish Air also contributed positively.

We exited Chilean beverage company CCU as the shares reached our target price. The portfolio currently consists of 47 attractively valued companies, trading on 8x 2020 P&E and 0.9x current P&B.
