

Performance Commentary

Emerging markets took a slight breather in August while global markets saw continued strength. The fund outperformed EM, and we are encouraged by signs that our investment philosophy may be gaining traction after a long period during which expensive growth stocks have outperformed. Among the fund's contributors, LG Chem, which is transitioning from a chemical company to cementing its leadership as a battery manufacturer, delivered better than expected results. LG Electronics recovered after delivering solid earnings with an improved outlook. Hyundai was also fuelled by strong earnings as well as more focus on their strength and potential within future mobility. On the detractors' side, Atlantic Sapphire was affected by the COVID-related slowdown in construction activities and the subsequent impact on near-term harvesting ramp-up and capex profile. The investment case is still exciting, however, as they are getting closer to revolutionising salmon farming by bringing it on shore. We also saw some reversal in performance from Samsung Electronics and Micron Technology as the near-term pricing outlook for memory chips deteriorated. The portfolio now consists of 44 holdings trading at an attractive 11.5x 2020 P/E and 0.9x current P/B, which compares to EM at close to 18x and 1.3x, respectively.

The fund selects low-priced, high-quality companies, mainly in emerging economies.

The objective is to provide the best possible risk adjusted return.

The fund is suitable for those with at least a five year investment horizon.
